Berlin, Nov. 15.—The opening of peace negotiations may be expected, with fair prospects of success, as coming this winter, and there is no reason why Wilson should not be acceptable as a mediator, said Count Apponyi, former Hungarian Premier, today. "Once Roumania is crushed it is hoped both sides will be willing to consider peace," he said. "Roumania was the entente's last card."

Bombs On Palace.
Bucharest, Nov. 15.—Hostile air-men dropped bombs over the royal palace, but the queen and prince had left the structure. Mining Industry Of United States Is Most Wasteful, Expert Affirms

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The mining industry in the United States is greatest in the world and has increased its output seven fold since 1880, but is the most wasteful and there has been little regard for the health and safety of the men who labor in the mines, Van H. Manning, director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, told the convention of the American Mining congress today.

Mr. Manning said: "We have become involved in an orgy of hasty exploitation and we are nearing the maximum production of some of the minerals, though the original supply, if wisely mined and utilized, would have lasted many years longer and brought us ten times the wealth."

Mr. Manning gave warning as to conditions in the United States following the war. "American industries have overcome foreign competition," he said, "by reason of abundance of our natural resources, ingenuity of our inventors, and improved machinery by which higher wages paid here are compensated by greater value of the output per man. EVELYN BARGELT IN FINE ENTERTAINMENT

TALENTED YOUNG LADY APPEARED IN M. E. CHURCH TURE COURSE.

Despite the inclement weather and a raging snow storm a large and enthusiastic audience greeted Miss Evelyn Bargelt of Chicago, cartoonist and entertainer, at the M. E. church Monday night and for an hour and a half were enthralled by her inimitable lightning sketches and readings. Miss Bargelt has a rare and pleasing personality and won her audience at her first appearance upon the platform.

Her drawings were of the rapid fire order and were accompanied by a running vein of wit and comment, with an occasional touch of pathos that delighted the crowd. Her drawing of Lincoln and the accompanying poem was especially fine. Her portrayal of the second act of "The Little Rebel" was the feature of the evening and stamps Miss Bargelt as a reader of strong personality and great histrionic ability. By request she will return next year.

D.A.R. EXHIBIT FOR LINCOLN MEMORIAL

STORE ROOM IN I. O. O. F. BLDG. FULL OF INTERESTING CURIOS.

ON THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

The Daughters of the American Revolution have arranged an exhibit in the store room in the Odd Fellows building, formerly occupied by Miss Thomas, which should receive the attention and support of every citizen of Dixon, since the object of the ladies is most worthy—the creation of a fund for a Lincoln Marker at the site of the old Block House wherein Lincoln was twice enlisted in the service of the United States.

The exhibit, which will open tomorrow and continue tomorrow evening and all day Friday and Friday evening, is most interesting. Rare articles from every part of the globe are shown, while the early history of Dixon is not neglected in the collection of curios. One of the most interesting bits of Dixon's exhibit is a first pay roll drawn for the Illinois Central employees here. The roll was drawn by W. W. Woolley, first agent for the road.

There are quilts of the 1840 period, old and rare dishes, Indian, Chinese, Japan, Hindu, South African and Panama exhibits and cards give complete information concerning the different articles. The entire north side of the room is given over to the curios collected by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Loveland in their trips abroad. The ladies will serve tea each day, and various articles will be on sale.

ALIENIST DECLARES DIEMER GIRL INSANE

THINKS PONTIAC WOMAN, SAID TO HAVE BEEN MURDERED, WAS A SUICIDE.

(Associated Press)
Bloomington, Nov. 15.—According to Dr. George Mitchell, the alienist of Peoria, who treated Christine Diemer of Pontiac, for whose death her parents and sister are being held to await an investigation by the grand jury, the young woman was insane and probably committed suicide.

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 15.—The inquest over the death of twenty-two year old Christine Diemer, whose body was taken from the Vermilion river, revealed that the girl had been brutally murdered and then thrown into the river.

The first theory held by the girl's father, that she might have taken her life as a result of a disappointment over his refusal to allow her to spend the winter in Florida without an escort, was shattered when Dr. A. C. Middleton, who performed the autopsy, declared that there was scarcely any water in her lungs and that her skull had been crushed by a blow and her neck broken before she was thrown into the water.

Pontiac, Nov. 15.—Jacob Diemer said today detectives were searching for an inmate who had escaped from the Pontiac asylum the day that his daughter disappeared.

Sterling Mayor Drew Revolver On Grocer Yesterday Afternoon

Sterling, Nov. 14.—The city was greatly shocked today when it learned that A. J. Platt, mayor of Sterling, had pulled a gun on Andrew Gerdes, green grocer dealer of First avenue, at about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon and threatened to shoot him. Mr. Gerdes backed away and the mayor replaced the gun in his pocket.

Mayor Platt was seen at 1 o'clock at his store building on First avenue and asked for a statement of the affair, and asked if he did pull a gun on Mr. Gerdes, replied that he did, and said he would have plugged him if he had attempted any violence to him or to do him bodily harm.

Statement of Mayor.
Said the mayor: "The city has been troubled for a great many years with the Gerdes family of grocers blocking up the sidewalks with their fruit and other stuff, even long ago, when they were on Locust street, and the matter has been brought to the attention of the council a number of times, but somehow they have managed to slip by it, regardless of there being an ordinance against it. Andrew has been doing the same on First avenue, blocking the way so that people have to dodge his barrels and boxes, and I have done the same thing myself in passing his store. I notified him last week that he must keep his stuff off the walk to the three foot limit allowed by the ordinances, as there have been complaints coming to me that it has been a nuisance. It did no good and this noon as I was going home to dinner I saw him again and notified him that he must keep his stuff from the walk. He became very angry at me over what I told him of the legal notification and came up to me and said he would smash my G—D—face for me, and it looked as if he was going to do it. I would let no man do that to me and rather than to have a fist fight on the street I drew my gun and told him I would plug him if he did, and I would have done it had he hit me."

The mayor was asked if he had the right to carry a gun and use it that way. He replied, "As mayor I am the chief of the whole police department as I understand it."

MORE RAILROADS TO FIGHT RAIL ACTION

ADAMSON LAW IS ATTACKED IN TWO NEW SUITS JUST FILED.

WILL DELAY ITS OPERATION

If Railroads File Suits Contemplated Long Delay Will Be Made Certain.

(Associated Press)
New York, Nov. 15.—The New York Central lines will soon file an injunction suit to test the constitutionality of the Adamson eight-hour law. It will be directed against the federal district attorney and the Brotherhoods.

It is reported that Attorney General Gregory will soon select one of the railroad suits and will push it to a decision which, if adverse to the government, will be taken to the supreme court.

The Pennsylvania railroad has filed a bill of equity in Philadelphia asking the federal district court to declare the Adamson law unconstitutional.

Will Delay Effectiveness.

If the railroads carry out their intention, expressed today, to file a separate bill in behalf of every one of the 200 railroads in the United States in every district they enter, the Adamson law will be from six months to two years behind in going into effect, even if it is found constitutional, it is said.

The Brotherhoods, it is stated, will appeal to Wilson to give them on Jan. 1, the eight-hour day which was promised them at Washington last summer when the strike order was recalled.

Not Commerce Regulation.

The New York Central's suit for an injunction contends that the Adamson law is in no sense a regulation of commerce but is merely a temporary increase in wages of some of the employees.

INTO THE FUTURE

Mt. Carroll Democrat: Ten years from now if the prices of commodities keep on climbing we expect to write an item something like this: A Mt. Carroll farmer brought a hog, a sack of beans and a bushel of wheat to town today, and after selling for cash bought a Ford, a new suit of clothes, a dress for his wife and each of his four daughters. The balance of the money, after paying taxes and 17 years' subscription to his home paper he put in the bank for safe keeping. He has two more hogs but does not intend to sell them until the family are ready to take a trip to Europe to see the battlefields, where the war was in progress until last spring.

ROCHELLE

Rochelle, Nov. 14—In weather mild way between freezing point and zero and in the teeth of a chilling wind, 35 automobile loads of jubilant democrats and a few "good-loser" republicans, toured the paved streets of the city last night in a ratification pageant over the election of President Woodrow Wilson.

The cars were decorated with the national colors, banners and the president's picture and the celebrators carried red fire candles. Two bands, the Rochelle Cornet and the celebrated Lafayette organization, a life and drum corps, and two quartets furnished pep for the paraders.

Two of the cars attracted much attention. Dr. T. E. Fouser carried a dummy elephant reclining on its back with its feet in the air, and Mrs. L. G. Southworth's car carried a live white rooster perched on a decorated pedestal. Two of the "good fellow" republicans in the parade were Mayor W. B. McHenry and Chief of Police Ambrose J. Hodges. The latter rode with Attorney John B. Hayes to fulfill a pre-election agreement in which he was to ride in the democratic parade if Mr. Hughes lost.

The banners bore such slogans as "Again We Put the Will in Wilson,"

Wilson Wins White Wall Street Vails, "Aristocratic East, But O You Democratic West," "Chicken for Us, But O You Crow," "He's Our President" and "Let's Pull Together." Hundreds of spectators witnessed the parade from the street, store and residence windows, bombs and sky rockets were fired at street intersections during the parade.

Notre Dame—George Gipp of Carleton, Mich., has been elected captain of the freshman eleven of the Notre Dame university. Gipp plays football and has been showing good form in skirmishes with the regular team.

Minneapolis—A large number of high class race horses will compete here during the ice racing season, and horsemen are predicting that several records will be established. An unusually large number of prizes will be offered and this is expected to increase the number of starters. Hais Chafin, who set a record of 58 seconds for a half mile; Kid Riley, Direct C. Burnett, Lon Allen, Peter D. Joe Dodd, E. Red, Marge Hal, Drift Patch, Queen Todd, Dan Cloud and Franklin Boy are some of the horses which are expected to be entered in the events.

Nose

—It Knows

Ever watch an expert tobacco man judge tobacco? If you have, you saw him rub it briskly between the palms of his hands till the friction brought out the aroma—then hold it up to his nose.

That's the supreme test. That shows what a tobacco really is.

Try it yourself—try it on TUXEDO—then on other tobaccos. Your judgment—as to what will please you—is as good as any expert's. Just do as he does—"follow your nose."

TUXEDO is the one tobacco that asks you to make this test because TUXEDO is the one tobacco that can meet it. Your nose will know the difference—instantly—between TUXEDO and all the others. None of the others has either the volume or the sweetness of aroma that proves superior and supreme flavor, mildness and satisfaction in the pipe.

Make the test—with as many tobaccos as you choose—and follow your nose. It will lead you straight to TUXEDO.

SAYS HOT WATER
WASHES POISONS
FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of Limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

Another large crowd attended the Catholic bazar at Rosbrook hall last evening and as is usual with that church's fairs, the night was one of enjoyment for all. The fair will continue every night this week. Slothower's orchestra completes its engagement this evening, the Marquette orchestra taking the platform tomorrow evening for the rest of the week.

Phidian Art Club
The Phidian Art Club was very delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Collins Dysart on Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs.
H. U. Bardwell, and the reading of the minutes by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Tribou, followed.

Miss Bertha Bennett, as the opening number of the program, sang very charmingly, "Ah, Let Me Dream" by Arthur Melvin Taylor, and responded to an encore, "Little One A' Crying." Miss Ruth Llevan was Miss Bennett's accompanist.
Mrs. Law's paper, "The Black Hills and the Bad Lands," followed, and was given in her usual able manner.

Black Hills is a misnomer, for really the hills are mountains. They are called black from the appearance at a distance. From Buffalo Gap, the entrance into the hills, there is a gradual ascent to Hot Springs, which, as a resort, equals the Hot Springs of Arkansas, with a temperature of 96 Fahrenheit the year around. From Custer, named from General Custer, there is an ascent to Sylvan Lake which covers about fifty acres and is partially surrounded by palisades. A short distance from this lake is Cathedral Park, with its walls and worshipers, all of natural stone. From Harney Peak, the Mecca of all visitors to the hills, the view is magnificent.
Wind Cave of Dakota, the most extensive cave in the world, has 12-000 rooms and the distance through is 55 miles. General Custer and two miners, Ross and McKann, sent to settle the Indian troubles, discovered gold in French creek. The climatic conditions in the Black Hills are excellent, never extremely hot or cold.

The Bad Lands were frequented in the early days by French Canadian hunters and trappers and from

'CASCARETS' BEST IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS,
SICK, CONSTIPATED

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box.
Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour gassy stomach.
Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.
Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.
A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your headache, stomach sweet, breath right, complexion rosy and your liver and bowels regular for months.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments
—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famine, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff —no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

its name means "Country hard to travel through," on account of the rugged condition of the country and the fact that it was hard to get water. The Bad Lands is a famous region for fossils, and it is supposed by geologists to have at one time been the bed of an inland salt sea.

The second paper, "Famous Me-—Orators", was given by Mrs. Ahrens and proved a most interesting paper. She chose from the list of orators James Otis of Massachusetts; noted for his eloquent speech on the "Writ of assistance;" John Adam of Boston, always remembered for his remarkable speech on the Boston Massacre; Patrick Henry, belged for his "Liberty or Death" speech given in the old church at Richmond; John Dickinson, who spokso eloquently before the Continental army at Boston upon the subject of the colony taking up arms; and John Witherspoon, who spoke, July 30, 1776, upon the necessity of federation.

Patrick Henry was the son of Aberdeen Henry, an immigrant from Scotland. Patrick Henry's mother was one of the Winstons of Virginia and a very gifted woman.
Patrick Henry, having failed in every other pursuit, started the study of law at the age of 24, nine years after leaving school. He was a brilliant success from the first.
He was governor of Virginia a three different times and a member of the legislature. He will alway be dear to our hearts for his wonde-ful speech in the old church at Richmond.

Booker T. Washington deserve a place among the famous orators said Mrs. Ahrens. He was born a slave and through sheer endeavor reached the goal of high attainment.
After this splendid paper the meeting was adjourned and a very social session followed.

U and I Dinner.
Members of the U and I club spent a particularly pleasant evening Tuesday as guests of Misses Pauline Bishop and Minnie Johnson at the Bishop home. Following the regular business session the guests were invited to the dining room where a surprise awaited them in a four course dinner. The tables were very beautiful, white and gold and green being most tastefully combined in the table decorations. A cut glass basket as the centerpiece held white chrysanthemums; crystal candlesticks holding green candles were placed here and there, the favor cards were in green, white and gold, and as favors, tiny green baskets held chocolate bon bons. A dinner par excellence was served. Instrumental and vocal music was enjoyed after the dinner.

The next meeting will be a banquet given by the losers of the Hughes-Wilson contest in the club at the Mrs.
C. W. Lindeman home.

To Be Given Flag
Presentation of the flag to the Dixon churches is a plan at present being carried out by the Woman's Relief Corps of the city. On next Sunday St. Paul's Lutheran church, in a flag service, will be presented one.
Last Sunday evening in a beautiful service, members of the corps presented the Grace Evangelical church with a handsome flag; the Methodist church, the Y. M. C. A., and the hospital have all been objects of the corps generosity and patriotism. It is particularly appropriate that St.
Paul's be remembered, as its beautiful north window is a memorial G.
A. R. window, put in during the pastorate of Dr. Dornblaser, who is a member of the Grand Army.

Called to the West
A. F. Hammesfahr, Sunday school worker of Chicago, who addressed the city Sunday School convention last evening, was obliged to leave directly after the meeting because of a telegram calling him to Kansas. It had been his plan to remain in Dixon for several days.

Prophet-Ganz
At the parsonage of St. Paul's Lutheran church at two o'clock this afternoon, took place the wedding of Fred A. Prophet of this city, and Miss Anna Ganz of Milwaukee, Wis. Rev. F. D. Altman, he pastor, officiated, using the ring ceremony. They were attended by his brother and sister of the groom, George P. Prophet and Miss Margaret Prophet, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Margaret Prophet. of Franklin Grove, was also present. The groom was born and raised in this vicinity and he and his bride, upon their return from a trip, will reside in this city.

Class Study Sociology
Miss Helen Tribou entertained on Monday evening the members of the daughters of the Covenant class of the Presbyterian Sunday School.
The beginning of the study of Sociology was made at this meeting, with interesting papers by various members of the class.

At Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. Elliott McCreary of South Dixon delightfully entertained at dinner Sunday the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. E.
Sheffield of Grand Detour, Mrs.
Margaret Buckaloo and daughters,
Misses Grace and Elizabeth, Mrs.
Arthur Sheffield, all of Dixon, and little Miss Margaret Buckaloo, of DeKalb, granddaughter of Mrs.
Buckaloo.

noon.

Help Nature Do It

Don't you see how she is working to get rid of your colds and catarrhs? The effort continues all the time, but in hot weather you catch a fresh cold every day or so, add to the catarrh in your system, and soon it is chronic—cystitis.
Your digestion suffers, you have trouble with stomach and bowels. Get at the real disease.
Clear up catarrh, and the other troubles will disappear.

Peruna is a good tonic, with

S. S. Convention
Of great interest to all who were present were the different numbers in the program Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church in connection with the city Sunday School Association. An interesting talk by Rev. G. W. Stoddard of the Baptist church, which all said who heard it fully repaid them for coming even if the other things were not counted, opened the program. Rev.
John Dornhoefer of the Congregational church pronounced the invocation, and the business session followed. Willard Beach gave a solo, which gave thorough enjoyment to the hearers, and the speaker of the evening, A. F. Hammesfahr of Chicago, was introduced. "The Sunday School that Wins" was his theme.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

A ROAD-BUILDING COURSE.

During the past year there has been a remarkable increase in the demand for better construction, more thorough maintenance and greater efficiency in the expenditure of funds for roads. In addition there is a rapidly growing demand for the immediate construction of a system of good roads, and a general realization of the fact that this can be accomplished only by issuing bonds. The problems and responsibilities of highway officials and engineers are therefore enormously increased by this condensing into a short period of time the work which would otherwise require a number of years. In order that the public's money may be wisely and economically expended it is of the greatest importance that all concerned shall be well informed as to the latest developments in the science of road building.

With this object in view the University of Illinois is again offering a short course in highway engineering under the direction of the department of Civil Engineering, to be given January 8 to 19, 1917. This course will be open to anyone without examination or other prerequisite and without fee.

The active co-operation of the State Highway department is assured and members of its staff will take part in the program. Several of the county superintendents of highways, members of the staff of the department of civil engineering and other members of the university faculty will present papers, give lectures or lead in discussions. The subjects to be considered will include road laws and their administration, economics of construction and maintenance, finishing of road work with special attention to bond issues, and the technical problems relating to the construction of roads and bridges.

In general the scheme of the program will be the same as that of last year. The morning sessions will be devoted to a systematic study of problems relating to the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges. It is the intention to arrange the program so as to care for those attending the course for the first time and also make it a continuation of the work for all who attended last year. It is also planned to offer instruction in surveying and kindred subjects for those who desire it. The afternoon sessions will be devoted to the reading and discussing of papers of general interest and to demonstration of methods for the examination and testing of the various materials used in the construction of roads and bridges. In the evenings less formal and more popular illustrated lectures along the lines of highway work will be given.

It is the intention that the addresses, papers and discussions shall be of interest to highway engineers, city engineers, municipal officers, township highway commissioners, county road officials and road and bridge contractors.

As soon as available, copies of the program will be forwarded to all the county superintendents of highways, to all who registered at the course last year, and to all others who apply for a copy.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON LOWDEN.

The Aurora Beacon-News, like a number of other newspapers around the state, realizes that Col. Lowden, governor-elect in Illinois, is one of the truly big republicans of the west. They say editorially:

Conspicuous among the governors of states during the coming four years will be Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

Of prime importance in the election of a republican president of the United States four years from now will be the nomination of a western man.

On September 25, 1915, the Beacon-News published an article showing Colonel Lowden's fairness in the contests before the republican national committee at the memorable meeting in Chicago just previous to the national convention of 1912.

It was shown that in the contest between republicans and progressives, Colonel Lowden, national committeeman from Illinois, voted for the delegation he believed entitled to be seated, irrespective of party, and thereby gained the commendation of members of all factions.

At that time the Beacon-News declared that if Colonel Lowden carried the same spirit of independence and fairness (and we believed he would) into the work of chief executive he would make an excellent governor of Illinois.

The Beacon-News knows of no better prospect for the republican party or for the west in 1920 than Frank O. Lowden.

THE PRICE OF FOODSTUFFS.

Unless something is done to limit the boost in food prices the poorer people of this country are going to be in desperate straits this winter. The situation has come to such a pass that the government of the United States will soon have to take a hand in it. What the people will demand is an embargo on the exportation of foodstuffs that are needed to feed our own people, and the demand will be just. The price of food must be reduced in some manner and the most effective way to do it is to create a surplus. The masses cannot be allowed to starve in order to fatten the bank account of the exporter. America must do what any foreign nation would have done long ago—put a stop to the food hold-up and regulate the prices.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE.

President Wilson is apparently re-elected. The vote was very close and the acquiescence in fairness and good nature by nearly a half of the people of the United States to the will of the slight majority is a gratifying demonstration of the real spirit of republicanism that is the foundation of this the greatest republic on earth. There is but one thing for all republicans to do, and that is to forget the past and look only to the future, giving their president every chance to carry out his ideas of what is best for the country and to withhold judgment until time has proven the wisdom or unwisdom of his future acts and they are again called upon to express opinions at the polls.

The fellow who had the thrift and forethought to get his winter supply of coal last summer not only saved himself considerable money but he insured warmth in his house, for just now it is a serious question whether a part of the United States may not have to start burning up its rocking chairs and sideboards unless the coal famine is relieved.

BRITISH AGAIN BEAT TEUTONS

Beaucourt Is Taken in Big Somme Drive.

5,000 ARE MADE PRISONERS

Smash Continues Unchecked—French Officer, Who Accompanied Allies' Assault, Says Foes Surrendered Without Opposition—Germans Admit Loss.

London, Nov. 15.—The British have captured Beaucourt on the Somme front, as a result of the continuation of their powerful drive on both sides of the Ancre Brook begun Monday. The prisoners taken by the British number more than 5,000 up to the present, according to the official bulletin.

Foe Taken by Surprise.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The British attacks now in progress in the Ancre region were preceded by four days of intense fog, says La Liberté's correspondent at the front. The British, he says, did not at first fire a shot and were not perceived until they were upon the Germans.

Rising from a creeping attitude when a few yards from the German trenches they charged with loud hurrahs. A French officer who was present said he observed with astonishment the progress the British troops had made. Every man, says the correspondent, seemed to have a separate mission, and when he fell another immediately went after the same objective.

Capture Whole Battalion.

At the village of St. Pierre Divion, where the fighting was exceptionally bitter, the British delivered ten assaults and a whole German battalion, according to the writer, with the major commanding laid down their arms.

Berlin Admits Important Losses.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—The stubborn defense made by the German of the positions near the river Ancre, which were attacked Monday by the British, caused the defenders to suffer important losses, the war office announces. The capture by the British of Beaucourt-Hamel and St. Pierre Divion, with the latter at connecting lines, is reported.

Latins Advance Lines on Carso.

Rome, Nov. 15.—The war office issued the following statement on military operations: "On the Trentino front the artillery on both sides was active. We shelled transport columns and troops in motion in the Val Arsa, Colasanto and Folgarida areas and on the Conca and Asiago plateaus. On the Carso we straightened out our line at several points, a heavy trench mortar, with ammunition, falling into our hands."

Roumanians Forced Back.

Petrograd, Nov. 15.—Roumanian forces defending the district about Rothenthurm Pass, have been forced back under persistent enemy attacks in the Alt river region, the war office announced.

Teuton attacks in the Jial valley resulted in capture of the village of Bumbeshi, the statement said.

For the first time since General Sakharoff's Russo-Roumanians began their smashing blows against Mackensen's extreme left wing, which rested at Tchernavoda region, the war office reported the situation "unchanged."

Force Russians to Retire.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Russian forces have retired from the Gergyo mountains, in northern Transylvania, to the Roumanian frontier as a result of German and Austro-Hungarian attacks, says the German official statement. To the south of Tulzhes Pass, the statement adds, Bavarian and Austro-Hungarian battalions made progress, despite the tenacious defense of the Roumanians.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 15.—Captain Robert Symmonds, eighty-two years of age, and for sixty years prominent among vessel masters on the great lakes sailed away to his last port at his home in this city. The Dixon Giants, the newly organized football team which inaugurated its season with a decisive victory over Sterling Sunday by a score of 40 to 0, will go to Morrison next Sunday to meet the Morrison Regulars, strong contenders for the independent championship of this section of the state. The Dixon team will work hard this week preparing some new plays and will go into the coming game with players averaging 180 pounds to the man. Morrison, while some lighter than Dixon, has not been defeated this season and reports from White-side county are to the effect that the Regulars are very fast.

Cyril Pritchard, Elgin High School Player, Has Paralysis.

LONERGAN AFTER FERRET USERS

Deputy Believes Hunters Are Violating State Law.

P. J. Lonergan, deputy game and fish warden, is making the rounds of this district to see whether hunters are using ferrets. It is against the law to hunt with the aid of ferrets and any persons found doing so will be prosecuted.

Mr. Lonergan also says it is his belief that many persons are hunting without licenses. There has been an unusually small number of licenses issued for this time of the year, and the conclusion is that hunting is being indulged in without the required legal permit. Mr. Lonergan wishes to make it clear that this will not be permitted and says it will go hard with anyone caught hunting without a license on his person.

OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

Wm. H. Kibble's grand spectacular revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is classed as the biggest scenic production of this well known story the American stage has ever seen, it being necessary to utilize two seventy foot cars to transport the fifty people with scenery and equipment. No such amount of money as Wm. H. Kibble has spent on this production has ever before been expended on the neglected and much abused but still most successful of American dramas. A feature of the production is the double quartette, composed of four ladies and four men.

FORD EVOLVES NEW USE FOR BREWERIES

Transform Them into Fuel Factories, Says Auto Man.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—According to a statement made by Henry Ford, the sixty breweries in Michigan, in which approximately $30,000,000 is invested, need not be abandoned because the state had voted dry.

"Economically it would be a shameful waste to have them become idle," said Mr. Ford, "but there is no reason why they should become so. Every standard brewery plant can be transformed at an expense that is in no sense prohibitive, from a brewery into a distillery for manufacturing denatured alcohol for use in automobiles or other internal combustion engines."

"And then with the world's supply of petroleum—and, therefore, of gasoline—fast playing out and the day of alcohol fuel for autos and tractors just dawning the present brewery properties are assured a future much more useful to the community and quite as profitable to themselves as has been their past."

By practical experimentation carried on during the last eighteen months in the Henry Ford & Son laboratories, Mr. Ford has proved these two things:

1. That denatured alcohol can be used successfully as a fuel for the gas engine in automobiles and tractors.
2. That denatured alcohol can be manufactured and marketed at a price that will permit its general use as a gas engine fuel.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

Presbyterian Auxiliary

The Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary, meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Helen Brown, decided to participate in the bazaar to be given by the Candlelighters at the church on Wednesday, Nov. 22, and to furnish something for the candy booth, the fancy work booth, and the supper to be given in connection with the bazaar. Committees were appointed for this purpose. Part of the evening was devoted to social chat, and with the hostesses, Miss Brown, Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. McGinnis, and Miss Renwick serving, excellent refreshments were enjoyed.

THE ONE MAN SYSTEM

Kindly disposed persons who are interested in the prevention of eternal consequences should take note of the fact that our most prized institution, the family, has gone far enough in its exploitation of father's earning ability. Only within the last half century or so has it been the practice for one lone member of the family to grab enough of the world's goods to support all the others in idleness and social hilarity. It hasn't been long since mother and the boys regularly took a hand in the getting, and occasionally even the girls helped out a little.

Attention is also called to the fact that the one man system of support is only an experiment. It is subject to change without notice, and without quarter, honest, simple minded folk, and all other are warned that there will doubtless be a little weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth when the break comes. If we don't take care, there may be considerable more than a little, and pessimistic philosophies and Utopian dreams may have to be resorted to.

Some of the more excitable friends of man say that it is high time that our sons and daughters be provided with something other than advantages, and that they be taught to expect something besides allowances and patronies. Alarmists are foreseeing all sorts of dire conditions—a race of spineless dependents, trying to collect the living that some fool has said the world owes them not being the least of such conditions. Although it will not be so bad as that, we may with propriety start a modest preparation by making it a felony for parents to provide their children with nothing but advantages. We may thus to some measure alleviate the misery of tomorrow.—From Judge.

FIND MISS SHARPLEY; $100,000 CLAIMED BLAME PUT ON LOVER

Declares Blackmail Demands Forced Her into Crime.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Annie E. Sharpley, Melrose Park poulterer and playwright, who borrowed $81,000 or more from well known Chicagoans, appeared in the office of her attorney and told a dramatic story of how she had been blackmailed of thousands of dollars by a sweetheart of her girlhood days in England. She admitted that she was the "Mrs. Annie Sharpley" who had been convicted of raising United States postal money orders in Philadelphia a number of years ago, and said the proceeds of those jobs went to the blackmailer, as well as the thousands she obtained from Chicagoans by less criminal methods in later years.

She appeared suddenly in the office of Attorney Gavin, 1314 Unity building, and immediately launched into her story. It is much like her drama, "Lights Ahead," which she has tried in vain for months to have produced on the stage.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Nephew Sues for Estate Alleging Celibate Promise.

VANDALIA, ILL., Nov. 15. Grant Fletcher in a suit which has just been tried at Vandalia claims the $100,000 estate of his late uncle, Granville Fletcher, under a verbal contract he claims to have made with his uncle, whereby he agreed never to marry.

For thirty-seven years Grant Fletcher performed the household duties of his uncle, doing the cooking, scrubbing and other housework in order that no women should set foot inside the house.

According to the testimony at the trial the elder Fletcher, owner of Bachelor Hall, near St. Elmo, fifteen miles from here, lived alone until thirty-seven years ago when he took his nephew, then eleven years old, to live with him. No adoption papers ever were taken out but the boy became cook, farmhand and house keeper.

When the boy began to court girls the uncle proposed that he would leave him his entire estate if he would promise never to marry. The boy agreed and shared the hermit residence of his uncle, until his death in 1915. The suit has been taken under advisement.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—At the edge of the Lakota Indian reservation a rider by strategy rescues a quarterbreed girl and two men from an Indian attack.

CHAPTER I.

Under Fire.

In its spring freshness the usual dreary brown of the Montana range was tempered with a pleasant green. But the midday sun was blisteringly hot, and the rider turned his eyes to the snowy crests of the Little Paw mountains. The nearest of the rugged, pine-clad spurs were now only four or five miles away. He had almost reached the reservation. Wolf river marked the boundary. The rangy stride of his thoroughbred mare was as easy and unflinching as when she had borne him away from the half-dozen shafts of the nearest "town" on the railroad, fifty miles back over the open range. But as they began to top the rise, he drew her down to her rapid walk, and took out his fieldglasses.

Hardly had he focused the powerful little binoculars when from across the coulee, a short distance downstream, came the crack of a high-power rifle. A moment later the shot was followed by three deeper reports from upstream. The first shot was smokeless. Not so the others. The bluish smoke puffs of their charges of black powder directed the gaze of the rider to the dozen or more swarthy, half-breed Indians crouching near the top of the coulee bank, across from the nearby butte. All were warily peering down the coulee.

The road ran obliquely across the narrow valley to a side gulley that gashed the far bank a hundred yards or so downstream. Back in the shelter of this gulley four or five ponies stood grouped before a buckboard. Above them a man was crouched under the edge of the bank. Another man lay behind a small bush, just outside the entrance of the gulley. A woman in civilized dress was coming around from the rear of the buckboard. The erect figure of the rider tensed with quick decision. He wheeled his mare out of the road, to cut down the sharp slope directly towards the Indians. His voice rang across the coulee with the clearness of a bugle call: "Ho, there! Cease firing!"

At his command, the Indians twisted about to glare at him in a half panic. Three or four started to slink away. But one swung his rifle around and fired. The bullet grazed the rider's coat collar. He flung up his right hand, palm outward. The reply to the peace sign was a second bullet, that cut the crown of his campaign hat.

Two bullets were enough to change the tactics of the rider. At a word from him and a touch of the reins, his mare swerved and plunged obliquely down the side of the coulee. The Indians burst into exultant yells, and several opened fire on the fugitive as the mare leaped down to the coulee and dashed across the bottom toward the gulley.

Urged on by voice and spurless heel, the mare sprinted over the sandy level with the rush of a racehorse on the home stretch. Coming to the narrowed stream, she covered it in a single tremendous leap, and dashed on, unchecked, up into the gulley, safe out of reach of those whirling leaden horns.

As they swept past the low bush at the entrance of the gulley, the rider looked down at the man behind it. He saw a blond, florid young fellow, whose blue eyes and small red-lipped mouth were ugly with hate. A glimpse, and he was past the outlaw.

The woman, crouched just beyond, under the edge of the bank, was blazing away toward the Indians with an automatic revolver. An instant later he pulled up his mare alongside the buckboard and looked up with cool alertness at the third member of the party, under the brink of the bank. The man ceased firing and twisted his thickest body half about so that he could stare down at the newcomer. His close-cropped hair was grizzled, his face leathery and stolid. The cast of his features indicated French-Canadian blood.

The fusillade of the Indians had ceased the instant their view of the fugitive was cut off. Yet, after a single hard look, the man on the bank turned away to thrust his rifle up over the edge and shoot. The rider wheeled his mare and rode back past the skittish ponies. The woman had crept in from the entrance of the gulley to where she could stand upright without exposing herself to the fire of the Indians.

She came up the slope with an easy, springing step that told of youthful buoyancy. From under the hem of her neat gingham dress peeped the toes of small, blue-banded moccasins. Having reloaded her pistol, she raised her head to look up at the rider. He was lifting his hand to touch his hat with perfunctory courtesy. Then he saw her face—calm, proud, vividly beautiful.

He removed his hat, with a sudden change in his manner that brought a gleam into the girl's blue-black eyes. The glare of the midday sun exposed the lines in his strong, plain face and the pallor under its tropical tan. From the white hairs that silvered his thick ruddy locks at the temples, his age might have been put at thirty-five or forty. But this sign of middle age was contradicted by the clear hazel eyes.

A trifle disconcerted by the girl's cool scrutiny, he brusquely demanded: "What is the trouble here?"

She looked from his cavalry puttees to his army saddle and the butt of his rifle. "I guess you needn't worry about your scalp," she assured him, her rich contralto voice as soft as it was sweetly mocking. "You came near getting a hair brand, I see. But you're safe enough now if you keep close."

The raillery brought a slight flush into his hollow cheeks. Yet his gaze did not flinch before her look of disdain. He asked another question: "Have they taken the agency?"

"No. We saw this bunch up the bank. Reggie cut loose at them before Pete could stop him."

"Pete? Ah—your father. The other man fired at them first, you say?" "Can you blame him? He was along when the agent was shot down, last week. You may have heard of the murder."

"Yes. Still it was wrong for him to invite an attack, with a woman in his party."

"Oh, I'm only a quarterbreed, you know," replied the girl with ironical lightness. "Besides, Reggie thought the party was trying to head us off. Don't worry. Charlie Redbear crawled up the road half an hour ago. The chances are we can hold out until he fetches the police." A rifle shot puncuated the remark.

The rider looked over the coulee bank across at the jagged crest of the butte. "If they slip over there," he said, "this position will become untenable. The butte is the key to the situation."

He looked at the girl, between concern and swiftly growing admiration of her remarkable beauty. Her eyes were like blue-black diamonds. An almost imperceptible film of old-gold enriched the cream and rose of her cheeks. Her jet-black hair was of French fineness. The curve of her rather large mouth was perfect.

But the red lips were again parting in a disdainful smile. She replied without seeking to conceal her scorn: "If you're afraid they'll take the butte, you might get away by bolting down the coulee. We'll do what we can to draw their fire."

"You will?" he said. "Thank you for your suggestion. I believe I'll follow it. Kindly step aside."

She stood motionless, her eyes glittering with cold contempt of his cowardice. Unchecked by the look, he leaned forward in the saddle. The mare leaped away like a startled deer. Once clear of the gulley she swerved sharply and raced away down the coulee. The flight was so unexpected, so daring and so swift that the fugitive had been borne a good fifty yards down along the foot of the near slope before the Indians opened fire on him.

The girl had crept forward and crouched in the entrance of the gulley to peer after him.

"The coward!" she cried. "The coward! I hope they get him!"

But before one of the many bullets could find the leaping, rearing mark, mare and rider shot out of sight behind a clump of willows. At once the firing ceased.

The blond young man under the bush glanced around at the girl and called jeeringly: "I say, Marie, how's that for a bolttail visit? Took him for a gentleman?"

"Gentleman? That's the word," she mocked. "Conduct becoming an officer and gentleman."

"Officer?" he repeated. "You don't mean to say—"

"Yes," she asserted. "He's an army officer. I could see it sticking out all over him."

The man stared at her in blank amazement, but suddenly bethought himself to roll over and send a bullet pinging up the coulee.

The girl continued to peer down the river bottom. After several moments mare and rider dashed into view, racing directly across the coulee. Though the Indians at once opened fire, the mare had skimmed over the level and up into a gulley in the far bank before they could get the range.

Hopeful that one or more of the enemy might expose themselves during the excitement, the young man behind the bush had not looked around. As the firing ceased, he called scoldingly: "How about the strategic retreat? Does General Fabius make his getaway without casualties?"

"Le bon Dieu be praised! He has escaped," the girl mocked in turn. "We are saved. In a week or ten days he will return to the rescue with three troops of cavalry."

"If those sneaking coyotes have sent a delegation around to climb the butte from the upside, we'll get ours before Charlie can come back with the police," grumbled the young man.

"Yes. Our military expert saw that at once. He said this position would become untenable."

"So he ran, leaving a woman in the lurch—the skunk!"

"Well, he has gone. You'd better be thinking how to get us out of the hole you've got us into," suggested the girl.

"All I did was to knock up the dust in front of them. The way they came back at me proves they really were scheming to get us."

"Much you know about it," scoffed the girl. "Just because some of the tribe are feeling ugly is no sign that—"

"How about the murder of Nogen?" "Well, how? You and Charlie both say there was only the one buck who did the shooting. No; if this bunch had been planning to get us, they'd have been out of sight under the edge of the bank or over on the butte when we first came along."

"Have it your own way—only toss me a bottle of beer, that's a good girl. I'm dry as a fish."

Recklessly he sat up and looked at her, his small mouth curving in a smile under the neat mustache. A bullet whizzed close over his head. "There's They've spotted your position. Come away!" Her voice quavered with concern for him.

The girl did not wait for him to reach her. Satisfied as to his safety, she went up the gulley to the buckboard and drew a canteen from the box under the seat. Her father glanced down and saw what she was doing. His face was powdered with dust. He spat and beckoned to her.

"Good! Bring it up. Bullet hit the edge of the bank."

The girl climbed nimbly up the gulley side with the canteen. Her father spat again, took a deep drink, and said: "Better get the ponies round behind the buckboard. Unless Charlie gets back soon, we may have to leave the ore and make a break for the agency."

"All right, Pete," cheerfully responded the girl. "There haven't any of them been hit so far, I guess. They may be willing to let us off with a big scare."

"I'll give them a scare and something more when the police come," declared the young man, who had taken a new position in the opening of the gulley.

"No, you won't," remonstrated the girl as she started down to him with the canteen. "When old Ti-owa-konza sent in word that he'd call it quits over the shooting or Nogen's killer, he meant it. But this time you fired the first shot, and if you kill one of them, it will mean a blood feud, if not an uprising."

"The Coward, the Coward! I Hope They Get Him!"

The young man snapped his fingers. "I don't give that much for the whole pack of coyotes!"

"Don't forget the mine, Mr. Van," protested the older man.

"Yes, and how about me?" asked the girl as she held out the canteen.

"That settles it," he replied. "To please you, I'll—what do you say?—I'll call it quits." Shaking a gush of water out over the spout, he lifted the canteen in gallant salute and carried it to his lips.

"Better hurry with them ponies, Marie," called her father.

She did not wait for the canteen, but walked swiftly up the gulley to the restive ponies. As she led the two saddle horses around to the rear of the buckboard, the young man called up to her: "Shorten my stirrups. That Pinto is the best runner in the bunch."

"Can you make it bareback?" she asked.

"He can hold on to the harness," said her father. "Tie the tugs so they won't drag."

"Yes, I guess I can hold on. I'll try the calico mare."

"Any sign on the butte?" she inquired, her supple gloved fingers deftly freeing the harnessed ponies from the buckboard.

"Nothing yet," answered the young man. "I'm expecting a bullet soon."

"This ain't no joke, Mr. Van," complained the other man. "He glowered at the butte. Suddenly his trained eyes caught sight of an object moving up the steep slope of a crag. He clapped his rifle to his shoulder, sighted it, paused—and lowered the weapon, with an astonished oath."

"Pete!" cried the girl. "What is him?"

"Who?" asked the girl. She had been too intent on her task to see what was happening.

"The man who ran away," he answered. "The joke's on you Mr. Van."

"How?" Her father grinned as he bent to refasten a tug. "You took him for a quitter. He had the nerve to run his fire ag'in—and you thought he was heading back for the railroad."

"The girl flushed. "He's not the man on the butte?"

"Yep. Jumped the whole bunch, first shot. We better hustle. It'll look good for us to cross over to meet him."

"Marie says he's an army officer," added the young man. "It will be as well to get the ore off the reservation. There's no telling what he has come for."

"Wait!" he replied. "If it is—by Gar, if it is! Git ready, Mr. Van. Only don't shoot unless they rush us."

The report of a rifle came down from the butte crest. The young man lowered his rifle and peered over the edge of the gulley. At the same moment a whirl of yelling horsemen swept down the coulee bank opposite the butte, and went flying away up the valley in a wild race for the nearest grove of cottonwoods.

From the butte several shots cracked in rapid succession. The fugitive Indians yelled at their ponies in a frenzy of urgency, and dug their heels into the flanks of the straining beasts at every jump. The rifleman on the butte was firing towards them, not towards the party in the gulley.

"Hold on, Marie!" said her father, jumping down the bank to her. "We'll hitch up again, and cross over to meet him!"

"Who?" asked the girl. She had been too intent on her task to see what was happening.

FIRES ON TEUTON VESSEL

Norwegian Warship Crew Boards Ship and Dismantles Wireless. Copenhagen, Nov. 15.—The Morgenbladet says that a Norwegian torpedo boat has fired upon a German steamer which refused to stop when passing Stavanger.

The Norwegian fired a shot at the rigging, the newspaper says, and then boarded the steamer and dismantled its wireless. Since the beginning of the war foreign ships have not been permitted to carry wireless installation when in Norwegian waters.

CLARK EXPECTS TO BE SPEAKER

Democratic House Leader Says His Party Will Control.

CLAIMS DOUBTFUL DISTRICTS

Organization of New House of Representatives to Depend Largely on Holders of Certificates of Election. Margin on Temporary Roll Will Be Made Secure.

Washington, Nov. 15.—"I expect to be re-elected speaker of the next house by a majority of at least three votes."

This was the prediction made by Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Clark has just returned from Missouri. His statement expressed with much conviction, was made after a conference with Chairman Doremus of the Democratic congressional committee.

"Mr. Doremus tells me," continued the speaker, "that the Democrats have elected 212 members beyond any doubt and the Republicans can lay claim to no more than 211. There are six districts where the Republicans claim the election, but where the vote is so close that the official count will be required."

"Unofficial advices to our committee indicate that we have carried each of these districts. They are those of Steele, in Iowa; Tavenner in Illinois; Scully in New Jersey; Weaver in North Carolina; Martin in Louisiana and Beakes in Michigan. Two of the small group of independents elected will vote with the Democrats, and there will be no other gains that will give us the control of the house with absolute certainty."

Temporary Roll Important.

It is evident from the guarded way in which the Democratic leaders talk that they are preparing for a determined struggle to control the house and that they realize the advantage that will come to whichever party holds the majority of certificates when the temporary roll is made up, which ever party has majority on temporary roll undoubtedly will maintain its hold, as it will name the elections committee that will pass upon all subsequent contests.

Few Errors in California.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—"The completed count for California will not show a difference of more than ten votes one way or the other from figures already given on the presidency," Sidney M. Van Wyck Jr., chairman of the Democratic campaign committee, announced here.

"We have no startling information of any sort," said Sylvester J. McAttee, secretary of the Republican campaign committee. "There are no indications of notable divergencies from the unofficial count."

There is nothing now to indicate that the electoral vote may be split. The Wilson electors are apparently all elected.

BLOODHOUNDS PUT ON LOST BROKER'S TRAIL

Search for Horace Jackson in Northern Woods Begun.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A dispatch received here said that Horace Jackson had been found.

Ely, Minn., Nov. 15.—The famous Baldwin Bros. and their hounds arrived on the evening train and started operations at once in the search for Horace Jackson, wealthy Chicago grain broker, who has been lost in the Burn Side Lake country, about fourteen miles northwest of Ely.

Howard Schaefer, one of the searchers and who was along with Mr. Jackson and hunting party, reports that his trail led into the Big Moose Lake country to the north of where he was last seen. A light fall of snow may somewhat weaken the scent but not enough has fallen to completely cover his trail.

U. S. PROTESTS ON BELGIUM

President Wilson will Ask German Chancellor to Stop Deportations.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Deportation of Belgian civilians into Germany for forced labor has reached such serious proportions that American Charge Grew at Berlin has been directed by the state department to take the matter up personally with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg.

The charge was requested to say that such deportations could not but have a most unfortunate effect on neutral opinion, particularly in the United States, which has the welfare of the Belgian civilian population very much at heart.

Will Take Place of Bremen.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Another great transatlantic merchant submarine to take the place of the Bremen, sister ship of the Deutschland, which was lost, with all hands, on its maiden voyage to the United States, is being built in Germany.

Calling Cards

A WOMAN AND HER MONEY

What shall a woman do with her money? It all depends on how much money a woman may have. Strange to say many of my inquiries from women ask for advice in reference to securities in which they can speculate or "take a gamble." But in the majority of cases, safe, sound conservative investments are sought by women.

The speculative field seems to be particularly inviting to women of small means. They often write that they must increase their incomes and want to find a way to do it quickly in Wall Street. Only one answer can be given to all such inquiries and that is to beware of the dangers of speculation and to put small accumulations into securities of the highest class.

Many women who receive 4 per cent from savings banks, and who wish a larger income with as much security as the savings banks give ask for suggestions. To these the response is that their money can be safely invested in the same class of securities that the savings banks pay with the money of their depositors. These banks are limited by law to the purchase of what are called "glit-edged" securities, though sometimes, but rarely bonds legal for savings bank investment prove to be anything but glit edged.

Among the most attractive and safest bonds outside of governments, are those of large cities. Because they are free from income tax they have been especially in demand and their yield is very little over 4 per cent in eastern states though in the west and south some yield nearly 4 1/2 per cent. I mean the bonds that savings banks are permitted to buy.

There are those who believe that the bonds now offered by foreign governments and that yield 5 and 6 and even better are well secured, but this is an exhausting war, and there are always possibilities, though not probabilities of scaling down or repudiating war debts.

A woman with a few hundred dollars might best be content to leave her money in the savings bank at 4 per cent if she wishes to avoid all trouble and anxiety. Yet in these days when bonds of the denomination of $100 can be bought so easily, a larger income can be secured by turning one's funds into these. There was a time too, when first class real estate and farm mortgages could not be had in small denominations. Public utility bonds yielding from 5 to 6 per cent have also come into vogue within recent years. The popular method of buying on the partial payment or installment plan has also offered a ready opportunity to the thrifty to make their funds profitable.

No matter whether it is a man or a woman care should be exercised in making an investment. It is not difficult to inquire carefully into the character of the security that is offered and, with common business sense, to judge to some degree, of its merits.—Leslies.

TIPS

Everything comes to him who takes. To sin is human; to be found out a crime.

You consider a man "nouveau riche" if he has made his money a year after you did.

When a woman says of another: "She's young; she's only fifty," depend on it she's forty nine.

Some people have feelings, and some have watery eyes.

Uneasy lies the head that wears a "toupee."

Kisses like clothes are purely a matter of taste.

Most of us are not at home when our conscience calls.

Discontent is the growing pain of ambition.

When in doubt keep quiet!

After dinner speeches are what your guests say about you on the way home.

The only big things about small natures are their mistakes.

One touch of romance makes a fat girl thin.

Platonic friendship is love on an enforced diet.

The climber on the social ladder must expect a few sharp splinters.

We are unaware that some people have minds until they lose them.

Procrastination is the mother of failure.

Embrace your opportunity and the world will ask your intentions.

At a wedding congratulate the bride and wish the groom luck.

Fair exchange is no business.

"Know thyself!" And if we did how many of us would acknowledge the introduction?

Some people think being rude in a confidential manner is honesty.

Money makes the mare go, but it helps keep the cook.—From Judge.

True religion makes a man feel that it is just as cold for his wife to get up and light the fire as it is for him self.

You may not be able to teach an old dog new tricks—but who wants to be a canine pedagog, anyway?

But when it comes to shovelling snow a man always tries to follow the straight and narrow path.

If a man can afford to sit down and wait for a golden opportunity to come along he doesn't need it.

A woman has the same ambition to get into society as a man has to keep out of jail.

Man is mister; woman is mystery.

WILL ELECTRIFY CHICAGO RAILS

Illinois Central Financier Promises Reform.

"WILL DO IT NOW," HE SAYS

Committee of Chicago Aldermen on Visit to Heads of Great Suburban Lines Are Given Assurances By Charles H. Peabody—Fight Has Aroused Nationwide Interest.

New York, Nov. 15.—The Illinois Central railroad is going to electrify its suburban system now.

Alderman Ellis Geiger, chairman of the Chicago council committee on railway terminals, is authority for this statement. He made it after he held a two hours' conference with Charles A. Peabody, one of the directors of the Illinois Central railroad. Mr. Peabody is president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., and representative of the Astor estate which has immense Illinois Central holdings.

"Mr. Peabody told me that the Illinois Central was willing to electrify its suburban system now," said Alderman Geiger.

The former's unexpected approval of electrification ends practically a fight of a decade to force the Illinois Central to install this improvement.

Alderman Geiger believes that suburban electrification will prove to be the entering wedge for total electrification of all tracks of the Illinois Central within the city limits of Chicago.

Mr. Peabody told him there was no question of the advisability of electrification within the confines of the city, provided it could be properly financed. Alderman Geiger was accompanied by Morton L. Crosey, an assistant corporation counsel assigned to the terminals committee, when he met Peabody.

Mr. Peabody also promised to come to Chicago to confer with the railway terminals committee when it talks of the question of the Illinois Central proposed station. He said he would arrange with John G. Shedd and J. Ogden Armour, two of the Chicago directors of the Illinois Central, to meet with the committee.

VOTE PROBE ON AT KENOSHA

Special U. S. Agent Starts Inquiry Into Alleged Frauds.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 15.—Politicians in Kenosha got a rough bump when it became known that the department of justice of the United States government through a special agent, William S. Fitch, connected with the Milwaukee office of the department had started an investigation into alleged election frauds in Kenosha county.

Fitch asserted that many complaints of illegal and irregular voting had been received from the department from Kenosha and that it had been alleged that men were brought in from Racine, Waukegan and Zion City to vote at the polls here.

Henry Phillips of Nelson was here today.
